LOCATION OF INDUSTRIES COUNCIL'S OBJECT

C. of C. Body Organizes to Secure More Concerns In Local District

More industries for Glendale, was the slogan adopted by the industrial council of the Chamber of Commerce, which completed its organization at a luncheon at noon today at the Alley Inn.

T. W. Watson presided and was later elected permanent chairman. Other officers elected were: S. C. Packer, vice chairman, and Park Arnold, secretary. The other members of the Council are: W. L. Truitt, D. J. Hanna, J. M. Wilson, F. B. Ortman, H. C. Vandewater, C. R. Smurr, W. G. Lauderdale, and W. E. Rauch.

Proposes Survey

Lawrence Grady, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, briefly outlined the object of the council, which is to locate more industries in Glendale, make a survey of the industrials and locate the proper kind of industries here.

A letter was read from the Zimmer Manufacturing Co., of Los Angeles, makers of window screens, who would like to locate a factory here.

There was also considerable correspondence from Cannon & Miller, Springwater, N. Y., who practically have decided to locate a factory in Glendale.

Local Resident.

A letter from Mr. Cannon states that W. J. Platt, a Glendale resident, would be the local manager and have charge of the Pacific coast business. This company manufactures high class radio apparatus, specializing in head sets and loud speakers.

During the general discussion there was some speculation as to where an industrial district could be located in Glendale. A representative of the Union Pacific railroad was present and told some of the plans that company has for the locating of industries and just what kind he believed should be located in Glendale.

In Favor of Tract

Mr. Hanna was of the opinion a tract should be set aside such as has been done in Alhambra, so that industries could be located without being charged an exorbitant price for land. It was finally decided to have the chairman appoint committees to look into the various matters.

CAMPAIGN OF PRESIDENT PLANNED

Chief Executive to Make One Major Speech; Will Not Leave Washington

By GEORGE E. DURNO
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—One major speech and a series of short, impromptu addresses will complete President Coolidge's personal participation in his campaign for continuance in the White House, it was learned today. The president will not leave Washington, depending upon the press and the radio to get his views before the public.

The big concluding speech of his campaign will be delivered here before eastern members of the United States Chamber of Commerce on October 24. Taxation, tariff, immigration and governmental economy will be discussed at that time.

Back Porch Campaign

With this one exception the president will pursue diligently his "back porch" campaign, wherein he meets and delivers three brief addresses to delegations from the south portico of the White House, or attends local celebraations.

Three speeches of this nature have been arranged for the current week. Tomorrow Mr. Coolidge will speak at the dedication of a statue to Francis Asbury, first American Methodist bishop. Thursday he will meet a delegation of foreign-born citizens from New York and on Friday he will greet the Coolidge-Dawes theatrical club organized by Al Jolson, and other prominent actors.

Radio Address

Tentative arrangements have been made for the president to speak over the radio on October 26 to a New York banquet of the Federated Jewish charities. Other invitations are pouring in daily from which the executive may select the remainder of his engagements.

The president will leave Washington on the night of November 3, for Northampton, Mass., where he and Mrs. Coolidge will cast their votes on election day.

Harlan told reporters that his marriage to Miss Prevost would be his third venture, while the prospective bride said she had been married once before. MacDonald Assails Liberal - Tory Pact

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Oct. 14.—Premier Ramsay Macdonald bitterly assailed the Liberal-Tory election pact in campaign speeches in Scotland today.

"The Liberals," said the premier, "have taken shelter under the Tories' guns. They had to do this to keep from being wiped out altogether."

Under the terms of the pact, Liberals and Tories agreed to put up only one candidate against the Laborite candidate in districts where the Laborites probably would be elected if the fight were three-cornered.

SHENANDOAH IS DELAYED BY WIND

Dirigible Expects to Leave San Diego In Morning For Camp Lewis

NORTH ISLAND, SAN DIEGO, Oct. 14.—The navy dirigible Shenandoah, delayed here since early Saturday morning for repairs, will not leave today for Camp Lewis, Wash., as scheduled because of a wind storm reported near Queen Charlotte Sound in the northwest. This announcement was made at 6 a. m. today by the officer of the day of the naval air station here, following a conference late last night between Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, and Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, commander of the Shenandoah, after they had received weather reports.

Hop Off Tomorrow

Tentative plans today are for the Shenandoah to leave tomorrow at 7:30 a. m. provided weather reports along the path to be traversed show conditions are ideal.

It was expected here today that the storm in the northwest will have passed inland by late today and that a hop-off will be safe early tomorrow.

BRITISH LACK ELECTION CONCERN

Voters Evince More Interest In Races Than Fight For Parliament

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Apathy characterizes the present attitude of the British public towards the parliamentary elections, now fifteen days away. There seems to be more interest in the probable winner of the Caesarwitch race.

The Liberals will open their campaign this afternoon in Quebec hall, with former Premiers Asquith and Lloyd George and Sir John Simon all on the program.

Stanley Baldwin, Tory leader, will open his campaign in the same hall tomorrow.

MacDonald for Labor

Ramsay MacDonald continues to focus labor interest. The warmest fights promised thus far are in Ulster, where De Valera candidates are contesting for thirteen seats. Harry Midgley, labor candidate, was driven by loyalists from a section of Belfast which loyalists claim as their territory. Midgley and members of his party were pelted with paper bags filled with flour.

Tory posters appearing today make Bolshevism the big issue of the coming election, though the laborites, fighting for a return to power, have disclaimed any alliance with the communists. The majority of the posters attack Bolshevism.

FIGHT SNOW TO SECURE KIWANIS DINNER

President A. L. Baird of Local Club Back From Deer Hunting Trip

Five large bucks, killed in the mountain fastnesses adjacent to Bishop, Truckee, Quincy and Chester, 145 miles northwest of Reno, Nev., were brought back to Glendale early this morning by A. L. Baird, president of the Kiwanis club, Dr. T. C. Young and their party, who spent twenty days pursuing deer in the High Sierras.

Members of the Kiwanis club are assured a venison dinner by reason of the kill. This dinner will be either next Friday or a week from Friday, Mr. Baird said.

The trip was made in Mr. Baird's Fiat, especially fitted for hunting purposes, and covered a distance of 1600 miles. The deer were brought to Glendale on a platform built on the back of the car. By reason of being frozen solid before leaving the mountains and protected by several layers of canvas, the meat was in excellent condition when it reached here.

Hunt on Foot

"There is no sport that equals hunting deer in that location," Mr. Baird said. "When we first pitched camp we hunted them on horseback, but when the heavy snows began to fall in the High Sierras and the rain began falling, the deer moved down in the direction of Red Bluffs.

"Then it was that we abandoned hunting on horseback, climbed in the car and drove twenty-five miles to catch up with the deer. After that we hunted on foot, and it made the going a whole lot harder.

"One of the bucks killed by the party weighed close to 175 pounds and had to be carried back to camp over a mile and a half of steep mountain trails. This buck had been shot before, the left antler and ear being clipped. After it had been wounded by one of our party I ran up and grabbed it by the antlers to hold it while another one of our party 'stuck' it. To my surprise and amazement, the left antler broke off in my hand.

Not Many Hunters

"Another buck had to be carried about half a mile back to camp. We got one buck that had

Another Murder Added To Chinese Tong War

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Another murder was added to the tong feud between On Leong and Hip Sing tongs. Un Ting, a Chinese employed in a Brooklyn laundry, was shot to death this morning by three men who arrived and escaped in a taxicab. They shot Un after an argument. Leaders of the two tongs were to meet this afternoon with Dr. Carleton Simon, deputy police commissioner, and a representative of the Chinese consulate at Washington. Dr. Carleton Simon hoped to induce both sides to sign a formal peace treaty, although a previous conference with that in view failed of its purpose.

ARMED FORCE IS ENTERING SHANGHAI

Ten Thousand Armed Troops Flow Into City From Disorganized Front

By BERT KUHN
For International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14.—A renewal of hostilities between the Kiangsu forces and the defeated and leaderless Chekiang soldiers was reported from Nanziant late tonight.

Heavy rifle and machine gun firing broke out there at noon the report said and continued throughout the afternoon. It was believed here, however, to be merely a local clash as generally the defeated and victorious soldiers are fraternizing in a spirit of great friendliness.

Armed Forces In City

A steady stream of the defeated Chekiang troops and the victorious Kiangsus continues to flow into Shanghai. It was estimated tonight that 10,000 Chekiang soldiers fully armed have entered the environs of Shanghai and are ranging through the thoroughfares of the adjacent settlements in Chinese territory.

Seventeen hundred additional Kiangsu soldiers have arrived and have been transferred to Lunghua arsenal.

Efforts to reopen the Shanghai-Nanking railroad failed today when a repair train was halted by a heavy fusillade from the Kiangsu positions near Changtu.

German Loan Buyers Scramble for Bonds

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—There was a scramble on the New York Stock Exchange at the opening this forenoon for bonds of the new $200,000,000 German loan. They sold to first buyers at 94⅜, an advance of 2⅜ points over the offering of the J. P. Morgan syndicate. An advance of so much was considered unusual by traders, accustomed to seeing jumps of an eighth or a quarter on favored securities.

The banking house of Morgan & Co. announced soon after the exchange opened today that its books were closed as far as the German loan was concerned, because it was heavily over-subscribed. Other brokerage houses had taken the same action even before 10 o'clock, the hour of opening.

BIG DIRIGIBLE MAY SIGHT LAND LINE LATE IN EVENING

Present Course Would Take Liner to New York on Historic Journey

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Zeppelin ZR-3 has turned into the northern steamer lane on account of reports of bad weather over the southern route, according to a radiogram received by International News Service at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon from Commander Hugo Eckener of the airship. The wireless said:

"On account of latest weather reports, we have changed our course more towards the north, and are making seventy miles in the direction of Cape Race. Ship and motors are in good order."

CHATHAM, Mass., Oct. 14.—The Chatham marine station of the Radio Corporation of America announced at noon today it was in communication with the Zeppelin ZR-3 and that the ship had increased its speed to 75 miles an hour. The ZR-3 gave its position at 11 o'clock, eastern standard time, as 47.20 west and 42.30 north latitude.

The position of the ZR-3 mentioned in the radiogram would put the ship about 1,100 miles from the American coast. Indications were that the Zeppelin would continue on a course that would take it directly to New York, passing north of Bermuda.

Ship May Sight American Coast Sometime In Evening

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Driving westward on its historic flight from the old world to the new, the giant dirigible ZR-3 is making from 48 to 60 knots an hour and barring mishaps is expected to sight the American coast line sometime this evening, according to messages received by the navy department this morning from Captain George W. Steele, the chief American observer aboard.

The Azores have been left behind and the big ship is heading direct for the Lakehurst, N. J., air station, Captain Steele reported.

A radio despatch to the navy department from the steamer Darden said that the ZR-3 was in latitude 40.25 longitude 44.20 at noon, Greenwich time, 7 a. m., Washington time. This position is 1800 miles due east of Phila-

Spending Big Amount On Lighting Systems

It is hoped by Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, that Glendale may be able to flash a greeting to the next president of the United States, after the November 4 election, with a flood of new street lighting along East Broadway.

The standards along this thoroughfare are now installed, he states, and are in process of receiving their finishing coats of paint. The job cost $34,000 and runs from the east city limits to Everett street.

These standards are the product of the Union Metal Manufacturing Co., and are of the same two-light, lantern type design that will grace Glendale and Central avenues, Mr. Diederich states. The three jobs will represent a total expenditure of $173,000 and will make these three streets among the best and most artistically lighted in Southern California, he feels. Each of the two lights in each standard is 400 candlepower.

Conduit is now being laid along Glendale avenue from San Fernando road on the south to Monterey road on the north, and the standards will go up on this thoroughfare as soon as the materials arrive, states Mr. Diederich. The job will cost $86,000.

Central avenue is to have work on the installation of these standards begun as soon as the curbs are laid, the lighting to run from San Fernando road on the south to Broadway on the north, at a cost of $53,000, he states.

Recover Body Of Man Drowned At Big Bear

The body of Charles E. Rolf, who drowned at Baldwin Lake, in Big Bear Valley, last Wednesday, October 8, was recovered today and the Kiefer & Eyerick undertaking company has sent an automobile to bring it back to Glendale, reports Mack R. Strother of 224 South Kenwood street, a brother-in-law of the deceased man.

Mr. Rolf was formerly a resident of this city, living at 220 South Kenwood street. Recently the family had moved to a ranch near San Fernando. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mae Rolf, and by an 11-year-old son, Wayne. Funeral arrangements will be made when the body has been brought back.

The fatal accident occurred at 6:30 o'clock last Wednesday night, the boat in which Mr. Rolf and two companions were seated overturning when he rose to change oars with Lee Barnard. The three were all plunged into the water and Rolf sank almost immediately, his heavy hunting coat, weighted with shells, dragging him down. The other two were able to reach shore. The tragic accident was the culmination of a hunting trip.

LUNCH CLUB MEETS ON THURSDAY

Second Get-Together Affair By Chamber of Commerce Seeking New Members

The second luncheon of the newly organized luncheon club of the Chamber of Commerce will be held Thursday noon at the Alley Inn. Business people are invited to bring new members.

The luncheon club was launched last week to interest Chamber of Commerce members and business people who are not members in civic affairs. The organizers feel that there are men not members who should be members of the various clubs, civic bodies or organizations, that the men should have a better understanding of public matters and that they can be brought together by means of the new luncheon club.

Club Open to All

The club is open to all. There are no dues or assessments, the only charge being the cost of the lunch each week. The club also aims to welcome the stranger and newcomer in Glendale, extend him the hand of fellowship and make him feel at home. At last week's luncheon twenty strangers were present.

Another feature will be the bringing of the Chamber of Commerce work into the home; also to bring about a better understanding of civic affairs. This is expected to be accomplished through the Glendale High school students, a plan having been evolved yesterday by George U. Moyse, principal of the High school, whereby two High school students will be present at the luncheon, take notes of the addresses and report back to their classes. The members of the classes will, in turn, discuss these matters in their homes, spreading the news of Chamber of Commerce work.

Exporter to Speak

The speaker this week will be Henry Lewis of Brownstein-Lewis Co., Los Angeles, textile manufacturers for more than thirty years. This firm also does a large export business to Central and South America and Mr. Lewis is expected to talk along these lines and their relation to the growth of Glendale.

The official name of the luncheon club is the Greater Glendale club of the Chamber of Commerce. Its affairs are in charge of a permanent committee, consisting of Milford Coye, chairman; Frederick Reinecke, C. E. Michael, George Orgibet and J. Arthur Myer.

BOURBONS IN DISCORD ON OKLAHOMA

Davis Sure of Electoral Vote But Senatorial Nominee Is Causing Concern

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 14.—John W. Davis is reasonably certain of Oklahoma's electoral vote. When the Democratic voters are apathetic this state sometimes turns upside down. There's no such danger in 1924, as the fight for and against former Governor J. C. Walton, Democratic nominee for the United States Senate, is making Oklahomans sit up and take notice.

When Robert L. Owen, Democrat, and the present senior senator from Oklahoma, sees fit to call on the Democrats of the state to repudiate Walton and cast their votes for his opponent, W. B. Pine, Republican, some idea of the intensity of the battle may be conveyed to the outside world.

Anti-Klan Issue

Walton won in the Democratic primaries as a minority candidate. He has raised the anti-klan issue. Newspapers like the Daily Oklahoman, which are and have been anti-klan, decline to allow that issue to change their feeling about Walton's candidacy, so one finds here the spectacle of most of the Democratic newspapers supporting John W. Davis and the Democratic state ticket, but bolting the Democratic nominee on the senatorship.

Walton's impeachment and his record in office are given by Senator Owen as reasons for refusing to support the man nominated to succeed him. Naturally a row inside the Democratic party has its dangers. Pressure is being put on many old line Democrats to vote for the whole ticket, including Walton, the argument being made that defections in one place might lead to others and that might carry with it a certain peril to the Democratic nominees for supreme judges.

Six are to be elected, which makes up a majority of the court, and the thought is being distributed among Democrats that if the Republicans win the court they will knock out the Jim Crow laws, a subject on which Oklahoma is as tender as South Carolina or any other state of the solid south.

La Follette Chances

Senator La Follette will get a big vote, perhaps 100,000. This would be little less than a fifth of the total vote expected to be cast. But there always has been a farmer-labor vote here, and a Socialist movement. It has been somewhat obscure and hasn't always gone to the polls because of the known futility of that errand. With La Follette conceded to be a factor in the presidential contest, at least in being able possibly to deadlock the contest, the radicals are coming out to vote.

Then there is the protest vote against both parties. It always amounts to something. Rising agricultural prices tend to some extent to erase discontent, but it hasn't been enjoyed long enough to squelch all of the protesting farmers.

Oklahomans Like Davis

John W. Davis is well liked in Oklahoma. It is interesting to find a state like that, for here the newspapers have given space to his speeches and attainments and the strength of Davis is not unlike that which has been carefully cultivated for President Coolidge in states where the Republican press is all controlling.

Governor Bryan has been making a favorable impression with his speeches in this state. The Democratic campaign is well organized and the state probably will poll an exceptionally large vote, which would mean a Davis victory by anywhere from 15,000 to 25,000 votes this time, even counting the defections to La Follette.

GIFT OF LAND TO BOARD ACCEPTED

Fifteen-Foot Strip Next to Patterson Avenue Ground To Be Roadway

The Glendale park board today in a meeting at the city hall adopted a resolution accepting the offer of J. R. Grey of a fifteen-foot strip of land along the west side of the Patterson avenue park. The resolution included an agreement to set aside an equal amount of land from the park property, and to combine the two into a roadway skirting the park, converting the present road into additional park space.

The board reported that the National Paving Co. is completing tennis courts at Patterson avenue park as a gift to the city. An order was authorized placed with the city purchasing agent to provide for the enclosure of the courts, that play may start on them as soon as possible. L. H. Wilson, chairman of the board, presided. Rev. C. M. Calderwood, L. T. Rowley, Sam Warren, park supervisor, and R. E. Tucker, superintendent of recreation, were present.

Motor boating near Naples, Italy, is confined to the Bay of Naples and about 200 pleasure craft are operating there this year.

Singer Cause Of Fight

MADELIENE KELTIE, American opera singer, visiting Monte Carlo, complained of the unwelcome attentions of a wealthy British guest. Then CLIFFORD HARMON, shown in the inset, beat him up, it is claimed. The Britisher claims the charges untrue.

Madeliene Keltie, American opera singer, visiting at Monte Carlo with her mother, complained of the persistent and unwelcome attentions of Arthur St. John, wealthy British visitor. Then Clifford Harmon, American millionaire, it is declared beat up St. John. The latter is confined to his residence by injuries. St. John calls the charges absurd.

The men escaped from the vessel in a lifeboat and were afloat for hours until they were finally sighted by the pilot boat.

been shot through the ham only the day before. Deer now are hovering around the timber line. There are not many hunters in that vicinity, as it is hard to get to."

In addition to hunting deer the members of the party enjoyed fishing in the Feather river, Mr. Baird said. The trip through the Feather River canyon was made in Mr. Baird's car.

Battle Snow

On account of a recent interpretation of the game laws, it was necessary for the party to return to Glendale over mountain routes which traversed districts where the hunting season was open. Instead of being able to come back by way of Sacramento and Chico, they were compelled by reason of the law forbidding transportation of deer in closed territory, to buck snow for 350 miles.

The deer were taken to the Glendale Market, 632 East Broadway, where they will be kept in the refrigerator until used.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR HONOR DIGNITARIES OF ORDER

INDIAN TALK GIVEN AT SCHOOL

Dr. Frederick Monsen, Noted Explorer, Lectures at Teachers' Institute

Indian life and characteristics were described by Frederick Monsen, of Pasadena, noted explorer, in an address delivered at the closing session of the one-day institute of teachers held at the Broadway High school yesterday. Richardson D. White, city superintendent of schools, presided at the meeting, and the High school girls' glee club sang several numbers.

Dr. Monsen preceded his talk with a number of coloragraphs showing places he has visited in the course of his explorations.

The explorer's talk embraced the southwest region of the United States — Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and a portion of Colorado.

Mongolian Descendant

Dr. Monsen expressed the belief that the Indian is descended from the Mongolian race, as he has all the inherent characteristics of the Asiatic. In his travels from Siberia, down through Alaska to Washington, thence through the southwest to South America, Dr. Monsen noted many changes in the habits and general physique of the Indian. In the northern countries where the Esquimo predominates, he found them short and squat, with flat noses and foreheads and a typical yellow Mongolian complexion.

As he came down the coast to Washington he found the Indian growing taller and the yellow features turning to a redder complexion. Continuing south until he reached South America there was another distinct change, but through all these types, Dr. Monsen said, the Asiatic characteristics always prevailed.

PERSONALITY AND YOUTH SHOWN

Closeup of Sen. Wheeler Gives Contrast to Health of His Running Mate

By GIL A. COWAN
Of The Evening News Staff.

The many people who last night at Hollywood Bowl heard the speech of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, vice presidential candidate on the La Follette ticket, had but a fleeting glimpse of the man whose youth and radiant flaming personality have made the campaign in the west take color.

There seems to be something diametrically opposite in the affinity of La Follette and Wheeler. The senator from Wisconsin is nervous, dynamic to a point of explosiveness, well past three score years and subject to ill health. The senator from Montana is the picture of youth, even in his mental attitudes, forceful but suave, and the very picture of health.

The writer remembers seeing La Follette when he was Wheeler's age. Even then the Wisconsin senator was "an old man" whereas the Montanan would impress one as a good natured "kid," were it not for his rather cynical remarks which show the effect of Washington on a westerner.

First on Coast

Senator Wheeler is the first, and perhaps the last, candidate on the national tickets next November to visit the coast. It was the pleasure of the writer to talk with him at length in the private car "Republic" where he makes his campaign headquarters.

To get his viewpoint one must accept the theory that there is something radically wrong in Washington, as he charges in his speeches. But the senator himself seemingly contradicts the assertions that President Coolidge is to blame.

For instance, we talked of the report made public by C. C.

Fashions For Men Changing

What Well Dressed Ones Wear This Fall

Seen Along Brand Boulevard

Times are changing. It used to be that men's fashions weren't. That is, they changed once in a decade. Now they change overnight. Clothiers say men follow fashions nowadays as closely as the women.

An increasing number of men have felt the need of competing sartorially for recognition with those they meet in the business and social world.

What is the well-dressed man wearing this autumn?

The English vogue of the past season is again holding the center of the fashion stage. The proper coat is eith . two or three-button, has wide shoulders, soft-roll lapels, a rather full body, low-set pockets and widely spaced buttons. Trousers are worn with or without plaits at the waist and hang perfectly straight from the knee to cuff. The preferred waistcoat is single breasted with blunted ends or conservatively small points.

The double-breasted jacket is another assured favorite for this fall. No well-dressed man's wardrobe is complete without at least one such model. It can be either a two or three-button garment, but to be absolutely correct it must have a long soft-roll so designed that only two of the jacket buttons fasten. These two should be set low and spaced rather widely.

Blue undoubtedly appears to be leader, although grays are fast finding favor. Everything from standard navy blue to the much overworked powder blue are being worn. One of the best and one of the most popular shades is crushed blue—a gray-flecked sea tone that is novel. An extreme novelty that is appearing is a lavender shade. It is very subdued, however, and simply gives a rich color tone to the fabric.

Club stripes in neckwear are much seen, while foulards seem to have retired. The best wing bow ties, first introduced as a novelty, have taken their place among the conservative necessities in men's neckwear.

There is one street which everybody in the world knows—Wall Street. It is the symbol of Big Business and its men have become symbols of success and opulence—perhaps because they know that good clothes are an "investment in good appearance."

An analysis of 500 of the best dressed men in Wall Street recently conducted by a trade paper, discloses some interesting things connected with men's clothes.

Twenty-eight per cent of every 100 men in Wall Street wear blue suits, while those who lean toward a cocoa brown are listed as 18 per cent. Medium brown, grayish brown and light brown are represented, respectively, by seven per cent, three per cent and two per cent. Twenty-three per cent wear single-breasted, three-button jackets.

WOMEN PLAN FOR SPORT PROGRAM

Athletic Club Outlines Future Work and Arranges for Picnic October 20

Board of directors of the Women's Athletic club held a business meeting in the home of Mrs. Ruth Windrem, at 646 North Jackson street yesterday afternoon, following which Mrs. Windrem served dinner. The table was decorated with a paper cover designed to impress with the Halloween spirit. Later the company attended the gymnasium class at the Harvard High school. Sixty members answered to roll call, after which the usual program was given under the direction of Miss Blanchard.

Members will hold a picnic October 20 at the Sunset Canyon Country club. A hot lunch will be served at 50 cents a plate. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. N. C. Paine at Glendale 4117. Reservations will close Friday night. Those attending will meet at the Harvard High school at 2:30 o'clock for the drive to the club. Each person is requested to take a plate, cup and spoon. The tennis courts, golf links and swimming pool will be open.

Business Meeting

The regular business meeting will be held at the Harvard High school at 6 o'clock, with Mrs. J. H. Toal, president, in charge. The gymnasium class will meet later, and it is suggested that those in the class bring their gymnasium uniform to the picnic. The picnic for next Monday night is only one of many outings planned for the club. Monday, October 27, is the date set for the gymnasium class Halloween costume masquerade party. Appropriate games are being arranged.

Tennis Activities

The tennis section meets Wednesday at 9 o'clock at McPherson court, corner of Kenneth road and Columbus avenue, with Mrs. Glenn Vail as instructor. The new tennis class meets Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Dr. Harrower court on East Broadway, near the high school. Anyone wishing to join is advised to call Mrs. E. L. Osborn, Jr., at Glendale 2234-J for further information.

The golf as well as swimming sections are forming new classes. Those desiring to join may call Mrs. R. E. Corrigan at Glendale 211-W for golf and Mrs. George G. Smith, Glendale 349, for swimming. There is also a demand for a hiking section, and a chairman for this section will be appointed and announcement made later.

Choral Club Singers Rehearse at School

J. Arthur Myers directed the rehearsal last night of the Glendale Choral club at the Harvard High school. It was announced that Miss Jensen, flutist, a recent arrival in Glendale, will be soloist at the club's concert next Monday night in Burbank. Another announcement of importance was the rehearsal of the club and symphony orchestra Tuesday night, October 21, at the Broadway high school, where pictures will be taken. The Glendale concert is to be given November 3. The choral club is to sing November 15 before the eisteddfod committee that meets in Glendale.

GLENDALE COMMANDERY HOST TO HIGH OFFICIALS

Charles Malcolm, Long Beach, Right Eminent Grand Commander of California, and His Staff Are Guests at Dinner Here

Charles Malcolm, of Long Beach, right eminent grand commander of the California Commandery, Knights Templar, and members of his staff headed the list of dignitaries of the order entertained last night by Glendale Commandery, No. 53, in the Masonic Temple on South Brand boulevard.

Hearty goodfellowship and cordial hospitality that mark every gathering of the Glendale Commandery was more than evident last night, when 216 knights and women enjoyed a dinner and program later.

Officers Present

In addition to Mr. Malcolm and his staff, there were present several past grand commanders of Californa and other states. Among these were Andrew J. Copp, eminent grand senior warden of California; Judge William H. Thomas, eminent grand prelate of California; Audrey R. Parks, eminent grand warden of California; Robert Waukowski, past grand commander of California; William A. Schreider, past grand commander, and inspector of Department 8 of California; Rollo E. Goodrich, past grand commander, and inspector of Department 6 of California; T. B. Allen, past grand commander of Colorado; E. S. Friske, past grand commander of Massachusetts; F. S. Martin, grand officer of Minnesota; C. E. Boag, commander of the Hollywood commandery, and James Wilson, past commander of the Hollywood commandery.

Shrine Entertains

Adding greatly to the hospitality extended by the Glendale Knights were the delightful dinner and entertainment program entirely arranged by Omar Shrine, White Shrine of Jerusalem, of which Mrs. Warren Roberts is worthy high priestess.

Mrs. Roberts appointed Mrs. W. W. Cannady as general chairman of decorations, and, with the assistance of other members of the shrine, a decorative scheme of great beauty was worked out. When the grand officers, knights and women marched from the lodge room to the banquet hall, they found themselves in a lovely setting. Katherine Delgardo played "Onward Christian Soldiers" for the march.

A large circular table was placed in the center of the room for the honored guests. This table and surrounding tables were artistically and elaborated decorated in shades of yellow, emphasizing the Shrine colors. A huge yellow and white bell hung over the honor table, the centerpiece of which was a tall yellow and white basket filled with zenias in pastel shades. Sprays of smilax and frills of crepe paper in shades of yellow were added features. On the other tables bou-

Reports of Colorado Oil Boom Erroneous

Reports have been coming to Glendale and other cities in Southern California of an oil boom in Fort Collins, Colo., with the result that hundreds of men have gone there seeking employment. A number of Glendale people have gone to Fort Collins and steps were taken to ascertain if the employment reports were true.

Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, received today a letter from the Fort Collins Chamber of Commerce in which the secretary, J. W. Rainey, stated that the report of plentiful work is erroneous.

Mr. Rainey said there are hundreds of men coming to Fort Collins broke, many having spent all their money to get here from Southern California and arriving destitute in the oil town. He also stated wages there are the lowest in history, with ten to fifty men for every job.

THE IF IN LIFE

IF is the biggest little word in the English language.

IF is the alibi of every man who has made a financial failure of life.

"IF I only had $1000; I have the chance of a lifetime." Did you say that, or did you hear it?

The man who is inclined to blame everything and everyone else for his misfortunes in life, generally has no one to blame but himself.

Don't let this fatal IF stand forever in the way of your future happiness.

IF STANDS FOR HOPE AS WELL AS FAILURE.

IF, for instance, you will deposit only $3.50 weekly in a savings account in this Bank, in five years you will have accumulated $1000.00 of which amount we will have added about $100 as interest. Save more and you will have more.

It is up to you to say whether this little word IF will represent "I Fulfilled" or "I Failed," five years hence.

SOCIETY'S DUTY TO CHILDREN

There are no people in the world doing work so important, so philanthropic, so far-reaching and of such benefit to society, as those who are finding homes for orphan children. The world is gradually awakening to the fact that placing children in asylums is only a half-way measure. The child who is deprived of home life has only half a chance to become a good citizen, no matter how reputable the institution in which he has been reared. He has been cheated and cannot be expected to give back to the world what he never got.

The world does not owe every man a living, but it is true that society owes every child the kind of a start that only real home life can give. It has been demonstrated more than once that babies really need cuddling and mothering, that those who are cared for in institutions do not have as good a chance to survive as those who are loved and cared for in homes, even though the former may have as careful attention.

A young man who was reared in an orphan asylum says that if he had children he would take their lives rather than knowingly leave them to be reared as he was.

An orphan asylum should be a clearing house and not a substitute for a home. Children should be taken temporarily to such institutions when it is necessary, but in this age of the world they should not be permitted to remain there very long. There can be no more important work in the world than bringing up the next generation to be good citizens, and there is no place that this can be done effectively but in a home.

Boarding homes for children are makeshifts, too. At one such place in Los Angeles county the proprietor will not accept babies over a year old. After that age they are too much trouble, for they will not "stay put." The babies are carefully and regularly fed, but aside from that they cannot be said to be well cared for. They lie on their little backs all day long, and if they cry, why there are too many of them to give them the little soothing, loving, individual attention on which babies thrive. Some of them are housed in outbuildings, where they are left all night alone.

The effort that is being made to secure a mother's pension system in California is a worthy one. When a mother is a widow or has been deserted by a worthless husband, she should have help to keep her children with her. It is due to the children. Of course, there are some mothers who are not worthy, but in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, children are happier and better when cared for in their own home by their own mother.

As for children who are both motherless and fatherless, it is a pity that any of them should have to be deprived, for any length of time, of a real home.

AMERICAN EMPEROR OF GERMANY

Many people will be surprised to learn that Seymour Parker Gilbert, permanent agent-general of reparations for Germany, and dubbed in that country as "Secret Emperor of Germany," is but 32 years of age. Gilbert is a lawyer and former undersecretary of the treasury. It is said he will have power in Germany exceeding anything ever exercised by William Hohenzollern.

Young people who think pull is the only requisite to reach high position should study the life of this young lawyer. He is a graduate of Rutgers college and won an LL.B. degree at Harvard. Hard work and study have brought him to a position where the eyes of the world are upon him, for so much, in the tangled affairs of the world, depends upon the way he handles his job.

Of his working habits, Current Opinion says, "It is recorded that for the month of January, 1920, only twice had Gilbert left the office before 1 a. m. Oftener it was 3, 4 or 5 o'clock. It was his invariable habit whenever he attended a dinner or the theatre to go back to the office and work, particularly to study. It was then that he dug into the reports and other documents with which the desk of every important government official is crowded, and frequently in the morning the clerks would find on Gilbert's desk a long report or letter carefully written out in longhand, ready to be copied. It was thus that he prepared veto messages—one of the most important sent to Congress by President Wilson, disapproving the legislative appropriation bill, was written by Gilbert, and the point made against it was that of unconstitutionality. The veto was sustained. It was a specialty of Gilbert, also, to prepare letters and memoranda for the secretaries of the treasury, which, of course, went out under their names, and for which they very properly, in accordance with custom, received the credit."

Gilbert is said to possess the peculiar faculty of being a master of details as well as an able executive.

PLUMBING A SCIENCE

Claiming that plumbing should have the credit for the falling mortality rate in this country, an exchange says that twenty years ago this work was left to unskilled laborers, but now plumbing has become a science.

The growth of this science in methods and appliances has been really amazing, and sanitation, which is only another word for modern plumbing, has become the watchword of Americans.

People who travel in other countries where bath tubs are almost as scarce as hen's teeth, can properly appreciate the growth of the science of plumbing at home.

The size of the plumber's bill has been the subject of a time-worn joke. The plumber has not reduced his charges, but he has advanced wonderfully in efficiency and has become a real benefactor in promoting health and comfort.

PRESS AGENT METHODS

It is a burning question whether or not a certain moving picture vampire did or did not elope. The role of internationally famed duelist is rather incongruous for a Cleveland bank president, and it is presumed the story was manufactured out of whole cloth. However, the newspapers published it and publicity is the stuff that stars are made of. Of course, it is immaterial to the world whether or not the story is true, but as long as these disreputable, lying press agents are aided and abetted by the newspapers they may be expected to flourish. The "thunder of silence" would be effectual in cases of this kind as well as in politics.

ANOTHER BELIEVER IN THE STRENUOUS LIFE

Men the Best Cooks

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There seems to be little doubt that men are better cooks than women, and the question arises why this is so.

Many answers have been given. One is that man cooks because he likes it and woman only likes it as a means to an end.

Another is that he sacrifices nothing on the altar of economy, whereas economy is the stumblingblock of a woman.

Again, man is said by nature to be an epicure. This gives him an instinct for subtly blending flavors to tempt the palate.

It is said that women accept cooking as an everyday duty, but men look upon it as a profession.

Man is more exact; whereas woman dislikes accuracy and works by rule of thumb.

It is said that man is more original and inventive, while woman merely imitates.

Again it is said that cooking needs good health and men can stand and walk about and endure heat for long hours better than women.

One writer says that men have tradition behind them and a recognized status; their remuneration is good; they are allowed to concentrate; they have an unstinted larder and their extravagances are overlooked.

One woman says that women are expected to produce a rich menu on a limited allowance, also to mind the baby, clean the house and answer the doorbell while they are cooking.

The best explanation is that men, when they cook, give their entire attention to the matter, while women are busy also with something else.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as another doubtful day, for, although Venus is in benefic aspect early in the morning, Saturn is strongly adverse.

There is a sign making for clashes in which women dare to scorn conventions and to seek new liberties.

While there should be fair promise for the public ambitions of certain women they will meet with much opposition from men while this configuration prevails.

One of the paradoxes of this time will be great craving for heart conquests among women at the time when they should be absolutely pre-occupied with business or professional work.

In the topsy-turvy world of today women are to be the victims of many of their own experiments in personal freedom, the seers prophesy.

Saturn today is a place threatening to all who would ignore the traditions of the past.

Much mental unrest may be felt at this time when the people must face economic conditions that are not favorable.

The seers counsel thrift and foresight before the winter comes, for there may be much unemployment and even poverty.

Food prices are to focus attention and there will be many reasons for conserving supplies.

Wars and rumors of war will disturb and find echoes in this country.

All the aspects appear to indicate the closest relation with European affairs and many serious problems of international movement.

Love must rule the world before universal peace can be attained and it can not encompass nations until it is cherished by individuals, the seers declare.

Persons whose birthdate it is may expect a busy and exacting year. An easier line of influence that is favorable to general prosperity will dominate.

Children born on this day probably will be reliable and well conducted. These subjects of Libra are usually great favorites with the opposite sex and fortunate in their domestic lives.

HIEROGLYPHICS IN BALLET

The Egyptian dance craze has taken a new form since the tombs of the Pharoahs were so much in the news in the last year or so. Mme. Claudia Issatchenko has devised a plastic ballet for one of the London music halls in which the hieroglyphics of Ancient Egyptian learning form the motif and inspiration.

Today's Poem

AUTUMN'S FIRES

Now Autumn's fires burn slowly along the woods,
And day by day the dead leaves fall and melt,
And night by night the monitory blast
Wails in the keyhole, telling how it pass'd
O'er empty fields, or upland solitudes,
Or grim, wide wave; and now the power is felt
Of melancholy, tenderer in its moods
Than any joy indulgent Summer dealt.

Who's Who

Commendatore Giacomo de Martino, who is slated at Rome to succeed the universally popular Prince Gelasio Caetani as the ambassador of Italy at Washington at the end of the present year, is one of the ablest members of King Victor Emanuel's diplomatic service and bears a name which is familiar to the editors and proprietors of a number of the biggest newspapers of the United States, for his father spent a considerable portion of his diplomatic career in the Far Orient, was for a time Charge d'Affaires first at Pekin and then in Japan, was through some intrigue against him in political circles at Rome suddenly dismissed on a fallacious pretext and compelled to earn his livelihood in the Orient by writing for American daily newspapers. After a few years, through the downfall of his enemies at home, he was restored to the diplomatic service, promoted to the rank of minister plenipotentiary, and died while filling that office at Tokio.

The new ambassador's sister will be pleasantly remembered at Washington as the charming wife of that Count Albert von Quadt, then counselor and Charge d'Affaires of the German embassy in America.

Italy's new ambassador to the United States speaks English without any trace of foreign accent. For he spent his boyhood in London, where his father was then counselor of embassy. Born at Naples in 1868, he entered the diplomatic service in 1891 and won his spurs at Berne by carrying out successfully the very delicate negotiations that eventually found the solution for the somewhat bitter Italo-Helvetian controversies that had been raging there for some time. In 1906 he was promoted to be first secretary of legation in Egypt and four years later succeeded his father as minister and diplomatic agent of Italy at Cairo. He managed there to acquire the very warm friendship and what is more the confidence of Lord Kitchener, at that time the masterful British plenipotentiary in the land of the Nile, and, owing to the very large Italian population in Egypt, was a great deal of use and support to the field marshal.

Making Presidents

By H. Irving King

IN 1856

The attempt to elect Scott was the last great battle of the Whig party. In the presidential contest of 1856 it made no party nominations; it was hastening to join the Federalist party and the national Republican party on the list of the defunct. But other parties had come into being, of which the Democratic party was forced to take notice. The Native American party, commonly called the Know Nothing party, had obtained surprising power in the north, especially by the time election came round again. Its chief, if not only article of faith was opposition to foreign-born citizens in office and especially to Roman Catholics. It was a secret organization and often carried local elections where least expected.

The anti-slavery elements had been crystallizing into a new party which now took the name of the Republican party and in June of 1856 a Republican convention was called at Philadelphia which nominated John C. Fremont of California, "The Pathfinder," explorer, soldier and former United States senator, for president and William J. Dayton of New Jersey for vice-president. The Democrats met in convention and nominated James Buchanan for president and John C. Breckenridge of Kentucky for vice-president. The Order of United Americans, as the Know Nothing party was officially called, held a "council" and nominated Millard Fillmore for president and Andrew Jackson Donelson, adopted son of Andrew Jackson, for vice-president. The few surviving fragments of the Whig party met and endorsed the nominations of the Know Nothings.

It was a hard-fought campaign and when the smoke had cleared away it was found that Buchanan had been elected; he having received 114 electoral votes to 114 for Fremont and eight for Fillmore. In the popular ballot Buchanan received 1,838.169 votes to 1,341,264 for Fremont and 874,534 for Fillmore. The showing made by the new Republican party proved that thereafter the contest for supremacy would be between that party and the Democratic party. Large as was the vote cast by the Know Nothings and the Whig remnants that vote showed a strength which "gave pause" only temporarily to the other two parties. For the Know Nothing party had reached the apex of its power and thereafter rapidly declined in importance, while for the Whigs it was their last gasp.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Oct. 14.—A resolution recently adopted by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, asking the Los Angeles county board of supervisors to call an election, at which a change in the county charter, providing for seven members of the board, will be offered, has received the endorsement of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce.

The only exception taken by the local chamber to the Long Beach resolution is that the proposition be submitted at a regular instead of a special election.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Oct. 14.—A two-store, one-story steel and concrete building is to be added to the Sunset boulevard business section. W. G. Hartranft, Jr., is the owner and will occupy one of the store rooms with a radio shop. The building has been planned with a view to adding two stories later.

A progressive dinner will be given Thursday night by the Tujunga Woman's club. Progress will be made through several states as represented by the homes of different members, and the choice dishes of each state served at each stop. Automobiles will carry the guests from the starting point to the various houses, or states to be visited.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Noyes, Los Angeles, Miss Elna Noyes and Charles Spielman, Hollywood, business man, spent Sunday with friends in Tujunga.

The winning membership team of the J. O. C. class of the community church will be banqueted tonight at the church by the losing team.

Traffic buttons have been placed at several of the busiest street intersections.

Dr. Pasko of Tujunga and Mrs. Walker, national vice president of the J. O. C. society, were the principal speakers at the annual meeting of the Tujunga branch of the society. Miss Peters, editor of the J. O. C. Bulletin, installed the following officers: Mrs. Van Nest, president; Mrs. Purer, first vice president; Miss Avery, second vice president; Mrs. Cline, third vice president; Mrs. Blackmore, fourth vice president; Dr. Wilson, fifth vice president; Miss Jenny, secretary; Mrs. Fraser, treasurer; Mrs. Wright, press; Miss Connor, teacher.

Athletics are receiving the enthusiastic attention of seventh and eighth grade pupils. Girls take Swedish drills and musical gymnastics and are planning volley ball teams: In anticipation of the playgrounds made possible by a recent bond election the boys are practicing baseball and will organize a team for play in competition with other Verdugo hills schools. Principal Axe stimulates interest in attendance by offering prizes to rooms and individuals for perfect records.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Oct. 14.—The Los Angeles Railway Co. has been instructed by the board of public utilities to stop its Eagle Rock boulevard cars at a point far enough back from Colorado boulevard so as not to block the traffic.

This information has been received by Councilman Edwin Baker, in the following letter signed by E. F. Bogardus, president of the board:

"In reference to your letter of recent date calling our attention to practice of stopping the Eagle Rock car on Colorado boulevard in such a position at the intersection of Eagle Rock boulevard that it tends to block traffic on Eagle Rock boulevard.

"We have instructed the Los Angeles railway to place a stop plate on the inbound track at a point on the produced east curb line of Eagle Rock boulevard.

"This will require cars to stop far enough back of Eagle Rock boulevard to allow a clear roadway."

Residents of Eagle Rock are grateful to Councilman Baker for this latest evidence that his interest in the community where he lives is sincere, declares Mrs. J. C. Reiter, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce.

"Bobtail Dixie," and "Dolly Days and Dolly Ways" and "King Gobbler," all written by Miss Abbie Smith, of Eagle Rock, noted writer of children's stories, were featured by Elgie Lowry Fischer, over KFI, the Earle C. Anthony Radio station, last Saturday night.

H. H. Harrison of 4928 Highland View avenue, has returned from an extended eastern tour. He visited in many of the eastern states as well as Canada, and spent some time in Pennsylvania, his home state, settling up his business affairs.

Emil Swanson, who was accidentally shot recently on a hunting trip, is recovering from his injuries.

quets of yellow chrysanthemums and marigolds were used. Favors for the men were clever little boutonnieres, with wired candies as flowers, and for the women yellow and white baskets of candies and nuts. Daughters of Shrine members, wearing white frocks and yellow and lavender caps and aprons, served, under the direction of Orma Vesper Naudain.

Community Singing

The dinner hour was enlivened by community singing, led by Francis J. W. Henry.

From the banquet hall the knights and their guests assembled in the lodge room, where Robert M. Grumbling, commander of Glendale Commandery, greeted the grand officers. In response, Mr. Malcolm gave a brief talk, expressing his pleasure and that of his staff on coming to Glendale for their official visit.

The program of entertainment included vocal numbers, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," "Sunrise and You," Miss Esther Parsons, accompanied by Ray Wisner; dances, "Egyptian" and "Grecian," Blossom Moore; vocal numbers, "Song of Thanksgiving" (Allitson), "Ave Maria" (Gounod), Mina Wenzel, accompanied by Katherine Delgardo; readings by Mrs. Evelyn G. Pierce. Speeches by grand officers were given during the program.

Ballet Dancers

Creating great amusement was the surprise number, arranged by Mrs. Pierce. A troupe of dainty dancers appeared in ballet costumes for a minuet. Those present recognized as the dancing artists, Warren Roberts, George Pierce, Raymond Luring, George Marek, Edward Emerick, John Jurgenson, Riley Lyons and Frederick Wenzel.

Following the minuet a solo dancer appeared on the floor, and it was not until the final bow that Ralph W. Brown was made known as the clever impersonator.

In closing, Mr. Grumbling thanked Omar shrine for their share in the success of the evening. Mrs. Roberts responded for the Shrine, inviting all present to the Halloween ball, October 25. The ball will follow the Knights Templar field meet in Glendale.

PRINCETON GAME SHOWS WEAKNESS

Sport Expert Lists Faults Made by Both Teams In Contest Saturday

By JOHN B. FOSTER
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The result of the Princeton game was disappointing to both teams. All ties are disappointing. The actual work of both teams in the field was affected by the heat and the exertion to which the players were put unquestionably handicapped their attack.

In the early part of the game, Princeton used punting freely and never gave Lehigh a chance to score. The attack of the Tigers was such that they took the ball twice to within the possibility of a field goal but both attempts failed because their drop kicker failed in direction.

Slagle, the Tiger quarterback, may be heard from as a field goal kicker. He is a Baltimore boy who got his early experience from Gilman Day Country school and in every way his work has his fine points. He is a good general, a good open field runner and a hard man to stop.

Tackles Are Good

There was one mighty promising feature for Princeton and that was the work of its tackles and the tackling of the team. When the Tigers have good tackles, Princeton is at its best.

If Lehigh had possessed more variety and if it had made more of the passing game, it might have left the Tiger field with the old jungle chief's scalp. In the last half, when at its best, it relied almost entirely on line plunging. It gained by it, but it could not carry its gain to the point necessary for a try with success at a field goal.

Defense Holds

After Lehigh had carried the ball to within 11 yards of the Princeton goal it sent its best backs against the Tigers' line twice and failed to gain an inch. That was the best defensive feature of the afternoon and warrants the statement that Princeton has a better line than it had last year.

No one can go far wrong in predicting a successful season for both teams. It is quite probable that Lehigh will have to be reckoned with as one of the better elevens of 1924.

In Caldwell, Princeton has a back who should stand very high this year. He has one fault that he must overcome, a tendency to stop and try to reverse himself. Lehigh played for it when it made itself manifest once and blocked him twice after that when he might better have gone forward.

C. OF C. SECRETARY TALKS AT MEETING

Howard I. Wood Speaker at Weekly Luncheon of Exchange Club

The Chamber of Commerce of any city should be the salesmanager for the community in which it is located, Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, told members of the Exchange club at the weekly luncheon held today noon at the Masonic temple. One of the greatest tasks of the Chamber of Commerce, he said, is selling the city to those who live in it as well as to those who live outside the city.

He outlined the purpose of the weekly luncheons held by the Chamber of Commerce each Thursday noon, and told of the speaking program for this week. He spoke briefly on the second open forum meeting to be held at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse next Monday night. Thirty members of the club made reservations for the open forum meeting.

Trade at Home

Mr. Wood emphasized the need of Glendale residents trading with home merchants, and asked the members of the club to unite with other organizations in standing back of the Chamber of Commerce and assisting it in its work.

Dr. Harrower Presides

Dr. H. R. Harrower, vice-president, presided at the meeting. President R. E. Johnston, who has been touring the east since the national convention at Nashville, Tenn., is expected home this week and will preside at the meeting next week.

Musical selections were given by Mr. and Mrs. Irving A. Steinel, who were the guests of Dr. Harrower. Mrs. Steinel sang "Youth and Spring," and "One Who Loves You Best," two numbers composed by Mr. Steinel. Mr. Steinel, who is assistant treasurer of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, was at the piano.

ARABS STUDY FARMING

delphia and 1200 miles south of Greenland.

The navy department at 11 o'clock today broadcasted the following special weather report for the ZR-3:

"No vessel report received east of longitude 65, pressure has fallen slightly Newfoundland southward, to latitude 40, but it remains high over eastern half of the United States and Canada. Highest 30.40 at Elkins, W. Va. Fresh northerly winds prevailed between coast and longitude 35. These conditions will probably continue for the next twenty-four hours."

Radio Messages Reveal Progress of Giant Craft

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—America's eastern seaboard was a 2,000-mile listening post in answer to an unspoken "stand by" as radio signals from the speeding ZR-3—now less than a day away from its future home—came over the Atlantic with increasing clarity today.

A clip close to 70 miles an hour demolished the 1300 miles remaining at dawn between the big dirigible and Lakehurst, N. J., where its German builders will deliver it to the United States navy.

The first faint message from the air cruiser was picked up shortly before midnight by the navy receiving post at the Battery. It read:

"All well on board ship."

Then clearer and clearer came the signals, until at 2:30 a m. stations ashore had no difficulty in hearing parts of the first long message received from the dirigible, and the first detailed account of progress of the voyage made directly to American shores.

It was from Captain George W. Steele, addressed to the secretary of the navy. Scout cruisers along the path of flight relayed it in full to the receiving station at Bar Harbor, Maine, which in turn passed it on to New York.

Making Good Progress

"ZR-3 making good progress," it read. "Sighted San Miguel island on port bow at 11:40 a. m. zone one time. Position at noon 38-50 north, 25 degrees west. Average speed 67.5 miles an hour.

"Air bumpy first part of forenoon, cool latter part. Ship will set direct course from Azores to Lakehurst. Since blowing valves this morning, gas cells are about 90 per cent full. Plenty of light inside hull. Light coming through after-compartment and through windows near walk inside hull, but keel corridor is a lonesome place.

"Had excellent dinner today—soup, boiled ham and string beans with pudding. Crew getting accustomed to going without sleep. Crew playing phonograph, others writing letters. No card playing, however. Pico island just ahead at 1:30 p. m.

"STEELE."

International News Service, via The Radio Corporation of America, received a direct message from Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the ZR-3, at 3:31 a. m. and at 4:25 a. m. the dirigible was heard picking up reports of the weather made by naval cruisers stationed along the line of flight.

CHICAGO WHEAT

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Although trade quieted down after the opening rush, the grain market today retained a good portion of its advance and closed strong and higher. Wheat finished 3 to 4 cents up; corn closed ⅜ to ⅝ higher; oats closed ⅝ to ¾ up. Provisions closed nominally steady, despite the drop in hog prices. Trade was small.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Professional stock traders pounded the market from the opening gong today in an effort to dislodge stocks and to force a general liquidation in industrial and railroad shares. With the exception of the oil stocks, which appeared to be in a sold-out condition, the bears were in complete control of the situation today, and prices tumbled from two to five points from Saturday's high levels.

Small traders joined with the big professionals in selling stocks all over the board, and favorable economic news was completely ignored.

Rallies near midday in some sections of the list followed the announcement of the new German loan and prices moved higher, but increases in prices of active shares seemed to be the signal for another deluge of selling, particularly of the market leaders, and fresh declines were in order.

American Can bore the brunt of the speculative selling and after opening fractionally higher at 130¼ it sold down to 126 for a loss of four points. Baldwin declined from 120½ to around 116; Woolworth from 106½ to 103; Cast Iron pice from 111 to 108½; United States Steel from 107 to 105⅝; New York Central from 106 to 103¾; Gulf States Steel from 69½ to 68, and Stewart Warner from 55¾ to 54.

Representative copper, sugar, motor equipment and railroad stocks were brought to market in good volume and sold at what they would bring, with the result that losses of a point or more were recorded in most of the active issues, with occasional dips to new low prices for the year.

Chandler Motors sold at a record 1924 low of 30⅜; Standard Plate Glass was pushed down to 14½, or three points below its previous low record for 1924; New Haven at 21⅝ was back to the starting point of its last rally to 30⅛; oil stocks were about the only stable section of the whole market. The rally which was well under way in these stocks in the first hour was nipped in the bud by the bears' raid on the market, but thereafter selling of the oils was light and losses small.

Pan-American Oil joined the reaction in the last hour, heavy selling of these stocks with consequent decline in prices did not unsettle the general market for oil stocks. Pan-American sold down 3 points at 48½ while the "B" stock was down 2½ at 47½.

The market closed under heavy pressure of selling, with values receding steadily and prices of many active stocks at the lowest for the movement.

Sales today—1,043,800 shares; bonds $16,001,000.

L. A. EXCHANGE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Although all lists were comparatively active during the morning session at the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, practically all sales were at a steady figure. Mining issues showed the only run, Oatman United gaining two points during the trading, rising from $.11 to $.13 with 22,000 shares changing hands. Telluride Mining made a half point gain, while Oatman Gold was steady.

Edison common sold at $99.75, 200 shares being sold. Los Angeles Investment was active but steady at $3.90.

Julian issues steadied after a week of marked activity, preferred selling at $14 and common at $8.75.

General Petroleum led the bond sales, 26,000 selling at $100.37½. Other bond issues were lightly sold.

Political Pulse

Editor's Note—This is the fifth of a series of articles written by A. S. Hall, of The Glendale Evening News editorial staff, dealing with the political situation in Central and Middle Western states in the South and Southwest. Material for this series was gathered by Mr. Hall on a tour of 6000 miles through Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. The next article of the series to appear in The Glendale Evening News will be: "Where Anything Might Happen Nov. 4."

V—WHERE VOTERS ARE SATISFIED AND SANE

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

Locating a state where the voters appear satisfied and sane in the present election is a mighty hard matter, any one will admit, but Utah has all the appearances of being such a state, and is expected to maintain that unusual position for the next three weeks.

In all elections Utah has not showed much excitement until the last few days of the campaign, generally around the latter part of October, but old political heads in the Mormon state are looking forward to a quiet, serene time up to the counting of the ballots.

Whatever fuss or excitement is raised before November 4 will be confined entirely to state politics and will not break into the national ranks. A little stir over the race for governor, with George Dern, Democratic candidate, likely to poll a heavy vote, may materialize; and a bitter contest over state senator from Salt Lake county is looked for.

Coolidge Is Favored

In the national race, Coolidge and Dawes are favored by the residents of the state, according to observations made in Utah recently. Davis and Bryan will run a poor second, and might have to be contented with third place, inasmuch as many of the Democrats are expected to vote for La Follette and Wheeler.

The citizens of the Mormon state are satisfied because the main products of Utah—wool, lead, copper and beet sugar—are well protected by tariffs. On top of this the Mormons think and believe that with their own Senator Smoot as head of the senate finance committee, they will be amply protected.

With these assuring facts placed before them, the citizens of Utah have assumed a "why worry?" attitude and are willing to let well enough alone. The Mormons themselves are not radical in their views and actions, and as long as present rulers please them, they are willing to continue the good work by returning them to the head of the government.

La Follette Gaining

La Follette has been gaining in Utah during the last few weeks, students of state and national politics report. This new support has not wholly come from the Republican ranks, as many believe, but mainly from the Democratic ranks. The Wisconsin senator has gained friends in the railroad communities of the state, such as Provo, Boulter, Linndyl, Milford and Price, as well as in communities where the population is more vitally interested in railroads than in agricultural pursuits.

Ogden, second largest city in Utah, which is also the largest railroad center in the state, will not follow the rule of "railroaders for La Follette," according to indications there. Although a terminal point for the D. & R. G. W. lines, and junction point for the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Oregon Short Line and Western Pacific, the railroad vote will not predominate, it is said, and Coolidge and Dawes will win.

Local Issues Mild

Local issues throughout Utah appear to be rather mild, as far as political campaigns are concerned. The biggest issue, it is said, started in Salt Lake county, when the Republicans began picking their candidates for state senator at the convention recently held in Salt Lake City. Mrs. Antoinette B. Kinney, of Salt Lake City, who served as senator from that county last term, was "squeezed out," despite the appeals made by many that with her on the ticket a heavy vote among the women would be assured.

This seeming disregard toward women politicians was offset by the naming of three women as candidates for representatives from Salt Lake county. These three women, Mrs. A. E. Graham, Mrs. N. A. Runyon and Mrs. Julia Smart, served the county at the last session of the legislature.

Sums Up Situation

A. B. Irvine, state senator, summed up the political situation in Utah in an address recently when he said:

"The Republicans in Utah challenge George Dern, Democratic candidate for governor, and R. C. Walters, Democratic candidate for congress, to go before the people of this state and advocate the Democratic doctrine of free trade. They know that the removal of protection from lead would close every mine in this state, because our miners are wholly unable to compete with the peons of Mexico, who work for a few cents a day.

"The beet sugar industry is of vast benefit to the people of this state. It is about the only thing that has kept many of our farmers from bankruptcy. Remove the tariff on sugar and you destroy the industry in Utah. Many remember when the Democrats tried an experiment of removing the tariff from wool. Our sheepmen were forced into bankruptcy. There are other items on the list the Democrats propose to remove the tariff from, which would be equally as demoralizing to the citizens of this state."

Because the Greek tariff makes the importation of ready-mixed paints prohibitive, Greece has 17 factories, employing 296 men, that import 800 tons of dry paint a year and mix it with oil or water for local use.

Nerves All Unstrung?

Glendale Folks Should Find the Cause and Correct It.

Are you all worn out? Feel tired, nervous, half-sick? Do you have a constant backache; sharp twinges of pain, too, with dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Glendale folks recommend Doan's for just such troubles.

Mrs. M. Glover, 818 N. Columbus Ave., says: "My back ached and pained all the while and I couldn't rest day or night. Dull, throbbing pains through my kidneys were almost constant and I could hardly do my housework. Headaches and dizzy spells were frequent and colored specks floated before my eyes, blurring my sight. I was nervous and felt run down and my kidneys were disordered. However, several boxes of Doan's Pills cured me which has been lasting."

CHAPTER LXXVII

"Think what I can remember!" Dora said. "The little grimy kitchen, and the saucepans all stuck with rice, and the sheets that got so thin—I can remember the very shape of the darns! And I remember her having a sore throat once, and how frightened she looked when she said to me, 'I can't be ill!' I was blundering about, burning things, and bringing her luke-warm tea, and grumbling, I suppose! And through it all Hilary kept saying 'Imagine how this will seem to us when we're in Europe, Butterfly! Won't this walking home in wet shoes seem like a joke then!"

"Astonishing!" Craig said, looking thoughtful and then laughing. "But this is the really unusual part of Hilary," he added, after a pause. "It isn't that she's happy now; she has something to make her happy now. She's married to a big man with whom she's madly in love; she'll have plenty of money and travel and excitement for the rest of her life. But it's this: she—she seems not——"

"She seems not to need it," Butterfly supplied, eagerly, as he paused. "That's Sis, exactly! She's always been happy, always bustling about full of schemes; she really isn't any different now from what she was in Mount Holly! All she wants is someone to love, and someone to work for—she's said so a thousand times. I really think she'd be just as happy settling with Konrad into a Bronx flat."

"Wait until the babies begin to come along," Craig said. "Then she'll be less casual, you'll see! We have the start of them, Butterfly."

"Yes, I know," Butterfly said. "If—if——" Her voice thickened; she stopped speaking. "If I come out of it, Craig!" she faltered, in a low tone.

He looked at her in concern.

"Dora, don't you feel well? Bertheau said that you were in splendid shape, that you could do anything now, within reason. You know he told me that you would get depressed, that it was quite natural——"

"Yes, I know!" Dora said, quickly, and was still. She lay back quietly in her pillows and closed her eyes. They had finished their luncheon now, and the table was gone.

Craig sat on, idle and relaxed. He did not really think as he smoked; he had a lazy vision of Hilary at the steamer rail, her blue eyes looking back across the opalescent great circle of the ocean toward the vanishing silhouette of the city that held her Butterfly. He dreamed of her return in the autumn, of the pleasure it would be to watch for a cable, to say, "Hilary and Konrad will be here on Wednesday." And would there really—Craig mused—would there really be a splendid little rosy baby asleep in his old nursery then, to be brought down dewy, and in ruffly white, as other men's babies were, to be introduced to the kinspeople from over the sea? His heart warmed to the little creature; it was an extraordinarily thrilling business, this question of a baby, considering how common a human experience it was.

He supposed Dora was asleep, she lay so still. There was something strangely pleasant in this unusual hour: Dora resting under her awnings in the warm spring day, and himself sitting beside her, thinking about their child. Craig felt a sudden pang of compunction as he looked at her; it ought to be simple enough for a man of his type to keep a temperamental, eager child, half village-bred and yet with all the romance of the old world in her veins, from making foolish mistakes. It ought to be simple enough to keep her happy! She was so young, so fresh and sweet, in her transparent linen and colored ribbons!

He reached gently for her hand, and held it in his. Not for many months had he felt so drawn to her, so marvellously content in mind and heart. His wife, his child, his home, he said to himself—that was the sum of human possessions, after all.

Suddenly Dora opened her eyes, and to his amazement he saw they were brimming, although she tried to smile.

"I shall get through it, Craig," she said, going on with their conversation as if there had been no interruption, "if you want me to!"

"Dora!" Craig said, shocked and concerned. Somehow he was on his knees beside her chair, and she had laid her childish arm, with its delicate laces falling back from the warm skin, about his neck, her brown eyes wistful and childishly wide.

"If you want me—if you love me—if there need be no more talk of m-m-my going away from you!" stammered Dora, in tears. "I want you, Craig. I want to go down to Southampton, where we were so happy, with you and the baby, and never think again of—of horrible things, and never talk again as if—as if you weren't my husband, for ever, and as if I weren't your wife! But—but if you are angry at me, Craig, for all my mistakes and stupidities, then—then I can't get through it, I shall die!"

"My darling," Craig said, deeply stirred, "do you think I haven't made mistakes—and been stupid?"

Dora tried to laugh, touching with her soft little fingers the tear that was traveling down his cheeks. But the effort was not a success, her lips trembled, and in the relief of being in his arms again after the long hungry months, she buried her face in his neck, and cried as if she would never stop.

"Why, Butterfly—Butterfly!" Craig said, drying her eyes gently, and then his own. "You mustn't cry, my darling. What would Hilary do to me, if she knew that before she was three hours out I had you in tears?"

"Ah, but these tears do me good, Craig," Dora said, raising her face, and smiling, and in her old strong, confident voice, "and I'm not going to talk any more! Elise is coming to take me driving, and your mother and a lot more will be in later. I'm not going to talk any more," she repeated, seriously, still clinging tightly to his hand, "I've talked too much. But by the time Hilary comes home, Craig, you and I are going to be the happiest husband and wife in the world. Will you believe it? And believe that some day you are going to love me just as much as you did when we were first married?"

"Butterfly, I don't know," Craig said, kissing her. "Because never in my life have I loved you as I do this minute!"

She looked at him incredulously, cried a little, laughed a little, and then rested in his arms, the radiant color that had been so long absent from her face flooding it again. He felt her small, boneless fingers, twisting his ring, as she had so often twisted it years ago in such a happy hour.

"What are you thinking about, Butterfly?"

"This—" she said, smiling dreamily—"our being friends again—everything being so right again. I was wondering if this isn't the greatest thing Sis ever did for me, after all. To leave me even when I thought I couldn't get along without her, Craig, to leave me alone, to find out how much I needed you!"

THE GATEWAY

The final showings of the Sidney Olcott Paramount production, "Monsieur Beaucaire," starring Rudolph Valentino, which opened at the Gateway Theatre last Sunday, will take place there this afternoon and evening. "Monsieur Beaucaire" is Valentino's first picture in two years, and the greatest picture in ten years! Better see it!

DOBINSON PLAYERS

Rosamonde Joyzelle, who is to be featured with Richard Ehlers and Gertrude Kellar in "The Country Cousin," which is to begin a two weeks' engagement on Wednesday with the Dobinson Players at the Club playhouse, Central at Lexington, Glendale, is an actress of fine perception and is known for her excellent creation of the Virgin and Mother Mary in the Pilgrimage Play at Hollywood. She was chosen to play this role by the late Christine Wetherill Stevenson. Miss Joyzelle is a beautiful young woman, and will bring to her characterization a fascinating personality.

Gertrude Kellar, so well known on the Pacific coast for her former stage craft, the visiting "Country Cousin," an old maid farmerette with quaint, outspoken ideas, at first despised but later called upon for opinions, is an actress of deep sensibilities and her portrayal of this character is well worth seeing.

The Dobinson Players have no intention of producing high-brow drama—just good, clean comedy, which is of interest to all ages and intelligence, where a pleasant evening can be spent, in "your home town" and with easy access and available parking facilities. A delightful musical program is presented at each performance.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TURTLE

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the forest, he chanced to hear a sad voice saying:

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I shall never get there in time, and my poor wife! What is to become of her?"

The rabbit gentleman looked up in the air, but he could see no bird who might have been singing this sad song. Then Uncle Wiggily looked down on the ground, and there he saw a poor old mud turtle gentleman who lived in a house of shell which he carried on his back.

"Hello, Mr. Turtle," cried Uncle Wiggily in his jolly voice. "Why were you speaking so sadly just now?"

"I spoke sadly because I am going to be late," was the answer. "I am such a slow crawler that I will surely be late. We turtles you know, have a house of shell on our backs so no Fox nor Wolf can bite us. Our shell is too thick for even the sharpest teeth. But because of this shell we have to go very slowly—crawling along like molasses in winter."

"Don't talk to me of molasses!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I know all about it! But what are you going to be late at—do you mean late for the moving pictures? Were you to meet your wife there?"

"Oh, no," slowly answered Mr. Turtle. "My wife is ill and I am going to the drug store, or chemist's shop, as an English turtle would say, for some medicine. But I shall never reach the drug store in time."

"Yes, you are a bit slow, my friend," said Uncle Wiggily, when he had watched the turtle crawling a few steps.

"I know it," was the sad answer. "And unless I soon get that medicine to my wife I don't know what may happen."

"I'll tell you what to do," said the kind rabbit. "I can hop very fast. Now you take hold of my tail in your mouth, but do not bite too hard. Just hold on to my tail by your beak and I will drag you along to the drug store, and I'll pull you back home with the medicine."

"Thanks," hissed the turtle, for that was his way of speaking. He took hold of Uncle Wiggily's tail, very gently, and then pulling his own tail and legs inside his shell, the turtle let himself be pulled over the dusty road by the hopping rabbit. Uncle Wiggily soon dragged the turtle to the drug store, and, with the medicie, the bunny hauled the turtle home again.

"You are back very soon, Adolphus," said Mrs. Turtle in a weak voice, for she was ill. "I didn't expect you so soon with my medicine. But I am glad, for I needed it. Thank you."

"Thank Uncle Wiggily, not me," said Mr. Turtle, and his wife did. Then Mrs. Turtle took her medicine and soon she was quite well again. And just as the bunny was about to hop home, the Bob Cat jumped out of the bushes at him.

"Bite the Bob Cat's tail, Mr. Turtle. Bite his tail!" hissed Mrs. Turtle. So Mr. Turtle fastened his sharp jaws hard on the Bob Cat's tail. As hard as he could Mr. Turtle nipped the Bob Cat's tail!

"Oh, wowzie scowzie!" howled the bad chap, and finally, by squirming about, he shook the turtle off his silly little tail. Then, with another howl, the Bob Cat ran off to the woods. So he didn't get the rabbit that time.

Mr. Longears thanked Mr. Turtle very much, and then hopped home to his hollow stump bungalow.

And if the potato pancake doesn't stay so late at the movies that it's afraid to go home in the dark, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the falling leaves.

FAINTING (SYNCOPE) No. 2

Fainting is defined as a transitory condition resulting from a sudden lowering of the blood pressure with resulting cerebral anemia and a loss of consciousness. There are many things that can cause this cerebral anemia or lessening of the blood in the brain.

Fainting is a symptom only, not a disease in itself. Repeated fainting may be the symptom of some general disease such as epilepsy or anemia or some affection of the heart, etcetera.

In the story I related to you yesterday of the woman who fainted in the restaurant, it was a symptom of tobacco heart. During convalescence from any disease, if the strength is overtaxed, fainting may be the result. Among the things causing fainting spells are: fasting, purgation, loss of blood (in the old days when blood letting was a common practice, there was considerable fainting from that procedure), acute indigestion, troubles with the internal portions of the ear, sometimes great emotion, tight corsets (now obsolete; they used to be the chief cause of the frequent faintings of our grandmothers).

The preliminary symptoms are: dizziness, perhaps nausea and dimness of vision. These symptoms are usually sufficiently advanced so that the patient has time to lie down. The victim becomes very pale, due to the contracture of the blood vessels of the head.

A person who is subject to fainting most certainly should have a thorough physical examination to find the cause and to remedy it.

TREATMENT: Lower the patient's head so that the force of gravity will help the blood to return. (Sometimes the patient who feels the faintness coming on, can abort it by leaning forward and placing the head between the knees). Here are some of the things you can do:

Loosen all constricting bands around the neck and waist; open the windows; dash, or slap with a towel, some cold water on the face and chest, rubbing the extremities briskly. Aromatic spirits of ammonia, one teaspoonful to the glass of water, or other stimulants like brandy, whiskey or strong coffee, can be taken when the patient can swallow. Nothing should be given by mouth when the patient is unconscious. Holding aromatic spirits of ammonia or smelling salts to the nose, testing it first on your own nose to see that it is not stifling, is effective. Unconsciousness from fainting seldom lasts very long.

IMPETIGO CONTAGEOSA—

Mrs. G.—The scabs on your child's face are probably impetigo sores but you had better take her to a physician to make sure. Impetigo is caused by a certain type of germs. It is highly infectious and not uncommon in childhood. It is not due to excess bitter eating as many think. Of course nutritional disturbances will make a child more susceptible to this disease as it does to other diseases.

The treatment for impetigo consists in the application of ammonized mercury ointment after a thorough washing of the sores with hot water to which a teaspoonful of borax has been added. (This softens the scabs so they can be removed and the ointment applied to the skin). The scabs will disappear in a short time under this daily treatment. Be careful that the other children do not use the same towels or other things used by the infected child.

To Make a Boy's Sweater, 8-Year Size: Buy 13 balls of white angora wool, two balls each of yellow and brown angora wool, one pair of knitting needles number three and one-half, and four double-pointed knitting needles also number three and one-half. Use this pattern stitch: Knit one row and purl one row alternately. Five stitches: one inch along row.

Back Cast on 72 sts, with white, using the three and one-half single pointed needle. Then K two, P two for four rows. With brown wool, K one row, then K two, P two, for one row. Repeat last two rows with yellow, then with white. Repeat from beginning of first brown row till brown stripe has been worked four times. K one row with white, then K two, P two, for five rows. Remainder of back is made with white. Change to the number four and one-half needles and K one row, taking care to work it on same side with wrong side of border, as latter turns up. P one row. Then K one row, and P one row, alternately till work, from cast-on edge to last row, measures 16 inches. P last row. Bind off five sts. at each side, for lower part of armhole. Make a narrowed row, as follows: K two, slip one, K one, pass slipped st. over, K to within four sts. of end, K two together, K two. Narrow in this way every knitted row till three sts. have been narrowed off at each side. Work even for three and one-half inches, and P last row.

Front: K 16. Bind off 24 for back of neck. On the 16 remaining sts. do six rows, ending last row at neck. Break thread. Do six rows on first shoulder, beginning first row next to back of neck, and ending last row at neck. At end of last row cast on 24 sts. for front of neck, and work across sts. of other shoulder. Make front to correspond with back, increasing at armholes instead of decreasing. Work border same as back, making sure right side of border is on same side with wrong side of garment, so that border comes right when turned up.

SPORTS

FINAL SERIES IN COAST LEAGUE ON

Angels Meet Tigers, Indians At Seattle, Seals Play Oaks This Week

By THREE STRIKES
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—The last series to be played in the Coast league finds four clubs in the running for the pennant, the closest race for many years. Seattle, by virtue of its victories over the Seals last week, is in first place, Los Angeles occupies second position, leading San Francisco by a one point margin. Oakland, the other team that still has chances, is three games behind Seattle.

The Indians are being favored to cop the flag providing weather conditions in Portland permit the full Seattle-Beaver series to be played. However, if rains continue in the northern city some of the games will have to be called off, thus putting a crimp in the Indian percentage column for they should easily take the series from the Ducks.

San Francisco will fight about on equal ground this week with Oakland. The Angels tackle Vernon, and while they are favored to take five of the seven games, the Tigers are giving nothing to their co-partners in the northern city. The Seals tackle Oakland and it is a certainty that the Oaks will fight every inch of the way and should break even in their series.

Angels Have Chance

This puts Seattle and Los Angeles in the foreground and with either rain or a good showing by the Portland club to check the stride of the Indians, the Angels are not at all unlikely to hoist the flag over the local ball yard.

The Vernon-Angel series will not open until tomorrow. Marty Krug and Bill Essick are already planning their attack, Ed Bryan having been chosen to take the mound for the Tigers, while Krug plans to use Doc Crandall to annex the initial game.

Gateways Drop First Game In New League

The Pullman Cafe team defeated the Gateways in the opening match of the Foothill league, played last night at the Recreation alleys. The cafemen took the first game by three pins, lost the second by ten pins and piled up a lead of 98 for the third game. Brown, of the winners, was high score man with 220. The count:

Fuel For Stove League

The timber the fans will chuck into the old heater this winter when they gather to finish fighting last season's battles and preparing for next year, might give off a very unpleasant odor, considering the logs the boys will have to burn during the cold months.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News

Much "green" lumber, that smokes and smells, is going to be shoved into the old base burner when the stove league convenes in its old haunts this winter.

And baseball will not gain in the burning.

Tales of bribes offered, crookedness attempted and old "queer" deals covered up and unearthed in the closing days of the 1924 campaign shook the fans' faith in the game once more—just when kind old Father Time had poured perfume on the odorous spots left by the world's series scandal of 1919 and the disclosures that followed.

So, when the dyed in the wool bugs get to buzzing about baseball this winter the achievements of the stars in the two big league campaigns, the debut of Washington in a world's series, and the outcome of said series, will furnish only some of the topics for conversation.

There will also be the following choice bits of scandal to furnish topics:

Jimmy O'Connell's admission that he offered Heinie Sand of the Phillies $500 to "throw" the crucial game of their final series, to cinch the pennant for the Giants.

His implication of "Cozy" Dolan and that gentleman's stereotyped and weak reply to all questions—"I don't remember."

Barney Dreyfuss' statement that Dolan tried to influence "Pie" Traynor, crack third sacker of the Pirates, last year by pointing out to him that he "ought to get $25,000 for his services."

The statement of Dreyfuss that McGraw wouldn't like to have the truth told about 1921. "If all that happened in 1921 had been exposed McGraw might not look very good," Dreyfuss was quoted as saying at the time of the O'Connell sensation.

The statement of Charley "Red" Dooin, former manager of the Phillies, that a Giant player dropped $40,000 in his lap as an offer to "slow up" in crucial games against the Giants in 1908. Dooin spurned the offer.

The statement of Lou Criger, once great catcher with the Boston Red Sox, that he was approached by a group of baseball men—one of whom is still active in the game—and was offered $12,000 to throw games between the Sox and Pirates.

The fact that Ban Johnson remained away from the 1924 world's series.

The fact that Johnson, as president of the American league, did not lend Landis his moral or active support in the O'Connell affair.

And then the situation at the time of the 1919 scandal will be rehashed.

Those who followed that situation closely will point out that Ban Johnson was then the "czar" of baseball. He controlled the national commission.

The Cook county grand jury, sitting in Chicago, first brought the series scandal to public attention, a year after the series was played.

It was Landis who blacklisted the players involved for life, despite the fact that they were acquitted in court.

Also it may be recalled that it leaked out later that, while the investigation of the 1919 affair was under way, Owner Comiskey was busy signing Joe Jackson and others for the following season.

Ten years ago the Athletics, wonder team of the game for years, lost the world's series in four straight games to the Braves. There were ugly rumors at the time regarding the influence of gamblers.

Two members of the Giant team in the 1917 world series were "eased out" of the game after McGraw charged them with not giving their best.

Then there was the case of the star pitcher on an American league team who was allowed to slip quietly out of the league several years ago after the investigation of a rumor that he had received $25,000 to "throw" a game.

After the Giants won twenty-six straight in 1916 McGraw left the bench in the middle of a game, angry in the announced belief that one or two of his men were not trying. The Dodgers won the pennant that year despite the Giants' spurt.

So, the odor oozing from the doors of the old stove this winter is going to be a "ripe" one.

Open the window a bit, Sid.

A new railway line to penetrate 600 miles into an hither to inaccessible part of Brazil, is to be constructed.

Governor Will Pitch To Home Run Slugger

Governor Friend W. Richardson will send the first ball over the platter when Babe Ruth steps to the plate in the baseball game to raise a fund for charitable organizations at Washington park, October 27. Harry A. Williams will head the reception committee to greet the king of swats on his arrival in Los Angeles. Ruth will take part in several games on the coast this winter.

Washington park, with its fences located far out of reach of most Coast league hitters, will probably prove an easy mark for Ruth, once he connects with the ball, and the possibilities are that the fans will witness a genuine slugging bee with plenty of long hits by the Yankee star. Several other National and American league stars will be seen in the lineup, as a number of them will winter in and around Los Angeles. The complete lineup will be announced shortly by C. T. O'Reiley, who has charge of the affair.

Sawdust to Remain on Field, Aggies Declare

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 14.—The Oregon Aggies, through Graduate Manager Carl Lodell, today laughed off the ultimatum of Coach "Gloomy Gus" Henderson that the Trojans would not come north to play the Aggies Saturday in Portland, unless the sawdust covering was removed from Multnomah field.

Lodell dispatched word today to Gwynn Wilson, Southern California graduate manager, that the sawdust will not be removed. He pointed out that California teams have played on sawdust fields in the north before, and said the covering was necessary, due to heavy rains.

"It's pure bluff," Lodell continued. "It is an attempt by Henderson to establsh an alibi because, perhaps, he fears the Aggies. It is really laughable. We certainly will not remove the sawdust. If Henderson wishes to be a poor sport and break his contract, that's up to him." Henderson's ultimatum was telephoned to Lodell last night by Graduate Manager Wilson.

Johnson and Dempsey To Buy Mormons, Said

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—According to an unconfirmed report in circulation here today, Jack Dempsey and Walter Johnson are planning to go into partnership in the purchase of the Salt Lake franchise in the Pacific Coast league next season.

TWO HELD IN JAIL

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 14.—Fred Ryan, Los Angeles broker, and Mrs. Barbara McQuade, also of Los Angeles, were held in the city jail here today following an alleged wild automobile ride down the coast highway which terminated at La Jolla, fourteen miles north of here, Sunday, when the machine driven by Ryan figured in an automobile accident.

TROJAN TEAM TO PORTLAND TODAY

To Meet Aggies Saturday; Santa Clara Plays Oxy; Sagehens vs. Caltek

Southern California football fans will need be content with watching grid teams of the Southern conference perform Saturday. The University of Southern California gridsters leave today for Portland, where they buck against the Aggie eleven in the first Pacific Coast conference tilt Saturday afternoon. Chief interest in local games will be the Occidental-Santa Clara battle at the Los Angeles Coliseum and the Pomona-Caltek affair at Claremont, with the former tussle holding the edge as a drawing card.

With 121 points scored, against six for the opposition, the Trojan eleven is going north with better chances than ever of returning home winners. Coach Elmer Henderson will carry the greatest assortment of players ever claimed by the Trojan institution. U. S. C., after opening the season with a decisive victory over Caltek, showed somewhat of a slump against Pomona and Arizona in the two following weeks.

Henderson boasts four complete backfields, three lines and a few left over.

Bill Cook, who attended Stanford in his freshman year and then transferred to U. S. C., electrified the fans Saturday when he went into the game and tore right through to a touchdown.

Expect Test Game

From present indications it looks as though some 30,000 fans will swarm to the Coliseum to watch Santa Clara and Occidental battle it out in a non-conference affair. The two little teams have covered themselves with glory this season by their showing against Pacific Coast conference elevens. Santa Clara held California to a 13-to-7 score, and the Occidental team scored on Stanford once, losing 20 to 6. Manual Arts High school and the Oxy frosh will perform in the preliminary tilt.

Pomona college, home after being considerably battered by the California Bears Saturday, meets Caltek, supposed to be a weak team in the conference. The Claremont boys are considered much stronger than Stanton's outfit and should easily win the fray.

Sagehens Report U.S.C. Better Team Than U.C.

The Golden Bears must add considerable punch to their driving power and bolster up on the defense if they hope to cope with the rushing attack of U. S. C. this year, according to the majority of players on the Pomona team, which went down before the onslaught of the northern team Saturday. Even though U. S. C. put over but two touchdowns on the Sagehens a week previous and the Bears scored four, the mainstays of the Pomona team are of the opinion that the Trojans are a much better team than their northern rivals.

The U. C. eleven lacks the punch of old and the Trojans will be able to puncture their line almost at will unless something is done to strengthen it at once, according to Fuzzy Merritt, Pomona quarter, who directed the team in the north. Clark, flashy Sagehen back, was not stopped once until he reached the secondary defense, and his gains caused him to be branded as one of the best halfbacks seen in the north this season. The Trojans and Bears meet on the gridiron two weeks from Saturday, and a lot can be done in the meantime toward bolstering up each team, so it remains to be seen just what the outcome will be.

LaBarba Makes Debut In Pro Ring Tonight

Fidel La Barba makes his fight debut to the four-round followers tonight as a professional at the Vernon Coliseum when he tackles Frankie Grandetta in the main event. La Barba won the championship at the Olympic games this year. George Blake, who has trained him and brought him up to his present status, will second for the flashy Lincoln High school student, and the affair promises to attract a record crowd to Doyle's weekly show. Grandetta recently returned from Portland.

Jimmy McLarin and Young Nationalista are slated to dole out the entertainment in the semi-windup, which also is labeled for a whirlwind exhibition. These two cards alone are attracting the fans, and there will be plenty of others to top off the evening's entertainment.

Ed Lewis Retains Mat Title Besting Mondt

The Colorado cowboy, Joe "Toots" Mondt, after one of the gamest exhibitions of mat artistry seen hereabouts for some time, lost to Champion Ed "Strangler" Lewis, two out of three falls. They wrestled at Washington ball park in Los Angeles, last night.

Mondt took the first fall; Lewis captured the next two. Ten thousand people paid $31,000 to see the grapplers.

Occidental to Play Hawaiian University

Occidental college will send a squad of eighteen players to the Hawaiian islands the first part of December to meet the University of Hawaii and the Outrigger club in a series of two games, according to announcement made yesterday, following dispatches from the islands concerning the game. The contest with the Hawaiians is scheduled for December 6, and it is planned to have the team over there four days before the game, in order to give them a chance to limber up their legs after the sea journey. They will return December 17.

Olympic Champ Meets Grandetta at Vernon

Frankie Grandetta, Pacific coast flyweight flash, will mix gloves with Fidel La Barba, the Olympic champion, tonight at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena, in the main event on the boxing card.

Other bouts will bring into action Jimmie McLarin and Young Nationalista, 116 pounds; Sailor Ashmore and Bob Bridges, 138 pounds; George Drew and Joe Kelly, 145; Ruby Lavine and Babe Harris, 120; Paul Duarte and Sailor Joyce, 150, and Harry Foley and Johnny Fiske, 128.

Poly-L. A. Grid Test Set Thanksgiving Day

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—The date for the football game between Polytechnic and Los Angeles high schools has been changed from the day before Thanksgiving to Thanksgiving day, according to an announcement of officials last night.

A crowd of approximately 30,000 is expected to see the contest should both teams go through undefeated to the day of the tilt, which is expected to be the biggest prep game in years.

Los Angeles

By Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Unless Cullen Landis, screen player, pays his wife $300 by tomorrow he will be forced to appear before Superior Judge Walter Guerin to answer to a charge of contempt of court. Mrs. Landis contends her husband is several weeks behind in payments of $100 per week, granted her in connection with a contested suit for divorce which is now pending. He was given until tomorrow to make up the back payments.

Rumors of the formation of a huge new film merger abounded in local motion picture studios today when reports were published that a "shake-up" was pending in the industry. It has been known that the Fairbanks-Pickford company, Charles Chaplin and D. W. Griffith have been dickering with Joseph Schenck for a new distributing system. The report of a new merger is given strength by the fact that Schenck, Adolph Zukor, Marcus Loew and other producers are now in the east.

Incensed at seeing L. O. Eckford, a friend with whom he had made an appointment, talking with his wife, C. V. Raney, a local broker, chased the pair from the house after drawing a revolver and firing a number of shots at them, according to evidence introduced at Raney's trial today. He is charged with attempted assault. He told police he had forgotten about the appointment and became jealous when he saw Eckford talking with his wife.

Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe has sentenced John C. Foster to four years in Leavenworth federal prison for the theft of an automobile which he transported to St. Joseph, Mo.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at 1201 South Hope street for F. J. Zeehandelaar, knight and consul of Holland here, who died Sunday night. He was secretary of the Merchants & Manufacturers' association, following a varied newspaper experience.

Snowfall in the Sierras has given temporary relief in the power shortage, according to officials of the Southern California Edison company and H. G. Butler, power supervisor.

Lovers of lobster will be glad to hear that the open season for catching the choice fish opens tomorrow in Pacific waters.

Girl Scout Captains Meet at Headquarters

Captains of the Glendale Girl Scout council met last night at the scout headquarters at the Harvard street school, Mrs. F. A. Beach, scout commissioner presiding. Representatives were present from six troops including Miss Gladys Sharpe, Mrs. W. E. Routt, Mrs. William R. Wichert, Miss Margaret Sharpe, Mrs. Buie and Mrs. Perry. Discussion of the form of march for the Armistice day parade was followed by the announcement of the scout leaders' class at Hollywood. A number of the captains and prospective captains in Glendale are planning to motor to Hollywood tonight to visit the class. The next regular meeting of the captains will take place the second Monday in November.

Urge Business Men to Dispatch Mail by Air

The response of Glendale business houses to the appeal for more air mail has been rather disappointing, according to Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Glendale's quota to help make the necessary amount to insure direct service from Los Angeles to the Atlantic coast is 35 pounds, but to date has only reached one pound per day.

The Chamber of Commerce has estimated that if each business house and manufacturer would send one letter or parcel each day by air mail Glendale would reach its quota. The Chamber of Commerce itself will send some mail each day by air and the committee in charge of the Glendale service, consisting of Dr. Henry R. Harrower, Roy L. Kent and D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster, urge every business man to do likewise.

Personality, Youth of Senator Wheeler Seen

Teague, local Republican leader, that La Follette had consistently voted against the tariff protecting California industry. The spokesman of the independent candidate declares that La Follette was expressing his disapproval of the system of tariff-making—a matter of "log rolling" with "sop" for the farmers, or citrus growers as they are known in the southland, with the purpose of the tariff to protect manufacturers in the east. In other words, Congress with La Follette and Wheeler as members makes a football out of the tariff, according to the senator's statements.

Worked for Wilson

In relating a heckling incident in San Francisco, the vice presidential candidate, whose electors will be found on the Socialist ticket in California, dropped the casual remark that he campaigned for the re-election of President Woodrow Wilson on the Democratic ticket in 1916.

Of interest to Republicans, no doubt, will be the expressed confidence of a large Democratic vote for La Follette, according to his running mate, who predicts this factor will do much to upset the pre-election confidence of the Coolidge workers. However, the dyed-in-the-wool Democrats deny any coalition.

If there is any coalition in California the writer is constrained to believe it will come from the old Johnson machine for Senator Wheeler mentioned a former Hiram Johnson manager almost simultaneously with the statement that precinct organization for La Follette was most complete in San Francisco and the bay district. And yet the solon sitting on Russian Hill in the northern city has not openly indorsed his colleagues in the Senate, no doubt out of deference to the staunch Republican sentiment to be found south of the Tehachapi.

It's Up to Public

To sum up impressions gained at close range Senator Wheeler is a thoroughly likable chap. No doubt he gained four votes as he left his newspaper interrogators to shake hands with a quartet of railroad men in the Santa Fe yards. He would make an excellent defense attorney for his ready response, although he might weigh his answers in a more mature manner. He is optimistic enough to believe his argument is conclusive. His adherents may accept it as so. But his opponents would point out that the issues he takes up are not so much a criticism of party or public office holder, but of the "system" in vogue at Washington.

And, therefore, in the opinion of the writer, it is in Congress where the cure is to be effected. That is a matter for the public to decide November 4.

State Commander Will Attend Legion Banquet

Former service men and women from Glendale, Pasadena, Eagle Rock, Burbank, Hollywood, Los Angeles, Lankershim and San Diego will gather at the Oakmont Country club tonight at 7 o'clock for the annual banquet of the Glendale post No. 127, American Legion, at which Past National Commander John R. Quinn and Nathan Coombs of Napa, Cal., commander of the department of California, will be the honored guests and speakers.

Department Commander Coombs notified E. E. McWain, adjutant of the local post, shortly before noon today that he would be present. Mr. Coombs had charge of the California delegation at the sixth annual national convention in St. Paul last month and was elected department commander at the state convention in August.

A program of addresses, musical selections and dancing numbers has been arranged by the committee in charge of the banquet.

MAY RAISE TAX

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—Gasoline may cost more in 1925 if the movement for a heavier state tax increases. Modoc, Shasta, Siskiyou, Trinity and Lassen counties passed resolutions sponsoring a plan to urge the incoming legislature to increase the tax to 4 cents. It is now 2 cents a gallon.

PLANS NEW AIRSHIP

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—The ZR-3 may be surpassed, if the plans of Dr. Arnold Rahtjen, chemist and engineer, of Berlin, are carried out. He proposes an all-metal airship which he says will be lighter than the ZR-3 and at the same time much stronger in construction.

Comment

By GIL A. COWAN

Great interest in the United States air forces is stirred both here and abroad, first by the army flyers circling the globe, second the dirigible Shenandoah's easy trip across the continent and today by the flight of the second air Leviathan from Germany, known as the ZR-3.

Man's mastery of air has but begun and there is no reason why these prosperous United States should not lead in aeronautical endeavor. It is the belief of the writer, however, that a separate arm of the fighting forces should be established to properly handle the situation.

Neither navy nor army air services can make progress bidding against one another for honor or appropriations. Yet both could be of invaluable assistance in developing a department of aviation.

If peace of the future is to be dependent on the nation arming itself with airplanes the United States may as well recognize it must major in that subject and allow the army and navy to be auxiliary units.

However, an efficient army and an equally efficient navy with its marine corps are still essential to public security. This country always should have millions available for defense and never pay one penny's tribute. Defense day last month and Armistice day next month hereafter might rightly be combined, as suggested by the American Legion, to serve as a lasting sermon-lesson on the price of unpreparedness.

Of interest to speeding Glendale drivers who take chances in haphazard passing of other motorcars was the tragedy enacted Sunday on the highway between San Diego and El Centro. The man attributed with the responsibility for a three-car crash saw his own baby die with a sliver of windshield glass piercing its skull. Little wonder the man fainted, as reports state.

And again we read of police and fire department cars crashing in Los Angeles, with more maimed. It is high time that officers of the law learned that old adage "haste makes waste."

Also, a truck driver argued with a street car for the right of way in Hollywood. The chauffeur is dead. One cannot help but wonder how many times previous this driver crashed on through traffic while those with lighter cars prayed for protection from the Juggernaut of the highways.

And that's that.

FAMOUS FLUTIST WITH ORCHESTRA

Andre Maquarre to Play With L. A. Organization at High School Friday

The solo flutist of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, which plays at the Broadway High school Friday night, October 17, is the celebrated Andre Maquarre, recognized throughout the world as a composer and conductor as well, according to Principal George U. Moyse of the Glendale Union High school.

M. Maquarre is French by birth, Mr. Moyse states, and studied at the Paris conservatory, where he took first prizes, both for excellence in musical theory and flute playing. After several seasons with the Lamoureaux orchestra and the Paris opera, he played first flute of the Boston Symphony orchestra in 1898 and remained with that great musical aggregation for twenty years, playing under such world-renowned batons as Gerich, Fiedler and Dr. Muck.

In 1918 M. Maquarre was lured to the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra by the brilliant and colorful Stowkowski, but, after two esasons, he turned to the Los Angeles Philharmonic, where he has proven his great ability to the delight of thousands. Among his original compositions are "Suite Romantique," for woodwinds, a concert overture, and "Indian Suite," the latter performed by the St. Louis Symphony orchestra.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—A new world altitude record of 12,066 meters was made yesterday by the French aviator, Sadi Lecointe. The former record was 11,145 meters (36,555 feet).

Dr. Frederick Monsen Talks About Indians

known as oceanography. While he was in London, he stated, he made a study of a map of the ocean that had been started in 1830. On this map each mariner was obliged to mark the latitude and longitude of any island, reef, rocks or submerged groups of rocks that he might discover, he said. During the years that followed thousands of islands and rocks were marked on the map, and during these years 3500 islands or rocks have disappeared, the speaker said.

Dr. Monsen declared the American Indian is the highest intellectual type, barring the white American. In the southwest he found villages that show signs of having been continuously peopled for centuries, one of them for 2000 years; others were wonderful ruins dating back through the centuries, he said.

No Insanity Found

He spoke at some length on the Navajo, 3500 of whom are governed by a group of chiefs or oldest and wisest men of the tribe. All disputes are settled by this committee and from their decision there is no appeal, he said. The Navajos do not live in villages, he said, but are spread out over the desert and neighbors are sometimes fifteen miles apart.

There is no insanity among the Indians, said Dr. Monsen, and very little sickness. That the Indian is more honest than his white brother is attested by the fact that there are only twelve Indian police to guard the welfare of 33,000 Indians in the southwest, he said.

In one of Dr. Monsen's pictures there is shown a swastika cross high up on a rock. The swastika, Dr. Monsen explained, is universally used in all countries, usually as a religious symbol. He also showed pictures of the practically inaccessible abodes that were inhabited by ancient tribes, usually through fear of their enemies; also the homes of the cave-dwellers.

Aged Are Starved

One picture was taken by Dr. Monsen of an aged Indian dying on the desert, and when he asked for an explanation as to why the man had received no attention, the chief explained that the custom of the tribe was that when an Indian had gotten so old he was no longer of any use and was in the way, he went out into the desert and starved himself to death.

Dr. Monsen concluded his lecture with showing a number of pictures of Hopi Indians in Arizona, their dances and customs, and different types of children.

The next one-day institute will be held in the Broadway High school on November 17 and the county institute in Los Angeles during Christmas week.

DR. MARY ARMOR DUE IN GLENDALE

Ex-Leader Georgia W.C.T.U. To Talk at Presbyterian Church October 21

Dr. Mary Harris Armor, who is to be one of the featured speakers this week at the W. C. T. U. convention in Pasadena, is coming to Glendale Tuesday night, October 21, and will speak at 7:30 o'clock at the Glendale Presbyterian church on "Saving America."

U. lecturer and organizer. She has traveled extensively in this and other countries, and has been one of the principal speakers at the world and national W C. T. U. conventions for years.

Finally found healing in Kellogg's Bran after suffering long with constipation

Mr. Patch writes that Kellogg's Bran "solved his problem." It has solved the problem of constipation—mild and chronic—for thousands of others. It has brought relief when all else has failed because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read Mr. Patch's letter:

Dear Sirs:

I have been a constant sufferer from constipation and have wondered what was the cause of it. I have tried about all the cereals I could think of, and finally tried Kellogg's Bran. This solved my problem. I feel 100 per cent better and I owe it to your Bran. . . . Thanking you very kindly for this great cereal, I am

Very respectfully,
Chester C. Patch,
761 Main St., Greenwood, Mass.

For the permanent relief of constipation, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestines. It rids them of the dangerous poisons that lead to other diseases. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious with milk or cream. You will like its nut-like flavor—so different from ordinary, tasteless brans. Sprinkle it over the cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Eat it in Kellogg's Bran muffins, griddle cakes and many other wonderful recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek and is served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. It is sold by all grocers.

STONE-TILE
PERMANENT CONSTRUCTION

Permanent
Beautiful
Protective

STONE-TILE is as permanent as its name implies. It lasts practically forever.

It lends itself to singularly effective decorative treatment by a new process which lasts indefinitely and is exceptionally beautiful. Varied shapes and sizes can be used to unique architectural advantage.

A STONE-TILE structure is impervious to moisture, is warmer in winter and cooler in summer, and the cost is practically the same as "frame" construction.
